This homely bit of advice has been going the rounds recently. "When you don't know just what to do, go to a talk with your wife." Now that is almost the last thing some men think of doing. They know something is wrong with them, but they do not know where to find the sovereign remedy. The man who forms the habit of talking his difficulties over with his wife knows where it is and just how efficient the remedy is.

Flippant and small minded men may refuse to "talk things over" with their wives, but the man who has been wise enough to select a good wife is wise enough to know that her intuition and her keen sense of his own disposition will often help him over the roughest sort of a place. If a man's wife isn't capable of talking things over with him and helping to advise him, it isn't a very good compliment to his own sagacity. You know men have the choosing in this world, and their wives represent their choice of the whole world of women.

Successful men everywhere will tell you that they were able to climb the ladder to the top because of one of two things. They either had an exceptionally clever mother or an exceptionally clever wife, or both.

Men may not realize it, but the women folks pretty nearly make them what they are. A man who once discovers that the women of his household are of aid to him isn't likely to leave any opportunity go by without getting advice from the same source, even though he may not acknowledge either his willingness or the value of the advice. But there are men who never hesitate to place praise where praise belongs.

Many a man is kept out of serious trouble because he realizes that his wife is his partner and talks business with her. When a man is willing to acknowledge that the business of getting along in life is a partnership, and that his wife is a member of that partnership, and an important one at that, he isn't likely to go wrong in any respect.

In the first place, he gets sympathetic advice. It comes from person most vitally interested in all he does and in all that befalls him. Her fate is so bound up in his that he cannot even trip unless she feels the jar. Most men don't or won't realize this, but it is true nevertheless.

The man who comes to look upon his wife as an incumbrance isn't likely to meet with any great success in life, and he isn't likely to find happiness staring him in the face.

But the wife must also be willing to do her share. She must be willing to listen when her husband comes to her with his troubles or with an outline of his plans or ambitions. She must stay the one and help him to fit in the other. She must feel safe inspiration that she can be helpful and she must act accordingly. She doesn't shun the dearest and most pitiable sort of a failure.

FISHER

We have to record the sudden death, on Tuesday, April 18th, of Mrs. William Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Vance, in the 22nd year of her age. The circumstances surrounding her death are very sad. Up to a few days of her death deceased seemed to be getting along alright, when suddenly blood-poisoning set in, following the birth of a child a day or two previous, medical aid not being present at the time.

All that loving care and medical skill could do was done, but all of no avail, and the deceased succumbed quickly to the fatal malady.

Unfortunately the husband was away from home at the time, being up north, buying horses, and did not return home in time to see his wife alive again. The funeral service was held at the home of her parents on Sunday, the 23rd inst., interment in the Stavely cemetery, the remains being followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of friends and relatives. The deceased leaves to mourn her loss, parents, brothers and sisters, a husband and three little mites of children, who have the deepest sympathy in their irreparable loss.

"In the midst of life, we are in death."—Stavely Standard.

The deceased lady was a sister of Mr. T. Vance of Cayley.

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For Creek, N.B.—"I have always had rheumatism there, and often after a hard day's work would distract me and cause me pain." Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am now a good, strong, healthy man, and I can walk with a straight back. Herbs have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, and it is used in the city of the world. The price is $1.50. WILLIAM BOYD, Fox Creek, N.B.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly sent to the Pinkham Medicine Company at Lynn, Mass., which proves beyond a doubt Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these chronic diseases of the body. And that, and that every such suffering was your own personal letter to at least one Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to a physician, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invited me to call upon her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

Women are apt to desire beauty more than brains, but they know their own business.

To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT myself as well as prescribed it to others. It is a good remedy and was required and have never failed to get the desired effect.

An optimist is a man born without a liver.

Sweet and palatable, "Yester" Soap. Your Extensor is a wonderful drug and it does its work surely and promptly.

It is a terrible thing for one man to be right when all the world is wrong. What an awful responsibility puts on him. And yet how many of us daily assume it without a quiver.

For Skin Health

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from improper treatment of the skin or neglect of simple skin afflictions. Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, affords the purest, sweetest and most economical method of caring for the complexion, preventing minor eruptions from becoming chronic, and speedily dispelling severe eczemas and other torturing humors, stichings and irritations, from infancy to age.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by Dr. J. W. Tresham, 105 Yonge Street, Toronto, S. S. Price, Boston, Mass. Manufactured free. Dealer's book on the care of skin and nails.

"RATS! MR. SPEAKER!"

M.P.'s Who Have Defied the First Committee of Englishmen

"I have only been really afraid of two men in my life," said one British M.P. recently declared, "and I am not afraid of the Devil." The speaker at Rugby, and Mr. Speaker Peeler. Of the two, the Speaker was much the more terrible.

Such is the reverence that hedges the Chair-to-day. How different it was in the days of the first Committee of Englishmen. The speaker, standing near the Speaker's chair, cried "Hear me, Sir, hear me, Sir!" Herbert p'nt not off his hat to him, but put out his tongue and popped his collar.

And again: "The House was moved to adjourn, and the speaker, standing near the Speaker's chair, cried "Hear me, Sir, hear me, Sir!"

Herbert was not afraid of the Speaker and the members of the third irreverent member, who had drunk not wisely but well, once called on "Mr. Speaker for a song."

It is small wonder that in those days the Speaker was a man to be mostly a weakling creature of the pack, who cringed and bowed to him.

Rich gilded before Henry VIII,

the Speaker was a man to be mostly a weakling creature of the pack, who cringed and bowed to him.

His Excellency, Earl Grey, is taking the next step in the same tributary to his reverence. His Honor Sir Daniel H. McMillan, is initiating the third stage of the process, and it is anticipated that there will be a bibrical response, and that a sufficient number of the members of the House will have some personal ornament and still leave a large sum to be devoted to the Speaker.

The mayors and rectors of cities, towns and villages, the public school boards, Canadian Clubs and other patriotic societies are cordially invited to co-operate in this movement, and to contribute to a successful conclusion.

The last day for receiving contributions is April 1st, and if this procedure is to make a creditable showing no time is to be lost.

It is the best method of work.

Each city, town, school or patriotic society will be asked to send in the Upper House, sent back answer that he would be "born by wild horses" to do so.

When Sergeant Pemberton once passed him with a familiar "Sir," he stopped him and said, "Sir, and on another occasion, when his own carriage drew down on the way to the House, he said, "Sir, I am in a more proper fit for you to walk in the streets than the Speaker."

Sir J. Tiptoft, another author of the weak-minded days, once gave his sovereign a severe rebuke for the fact that he and his wife were "but such as they ought to be"; and Sir Fletcher, in his extravagance, which cost him his Chair.

John Evelyn, a remarkable speaker of past times, was Sir John Popham and Sir John Trevor.

Popham, as a child, brought up among gipsies, played the role of highwayman—most credit him for it—but he was made Lord Chief Justice.

It was Popham, by the way, who, when he was received in the Lower House, gravely answered, with a twinkle in his eye, "I am a Member of Parliament."

Trotter's career was equally absurd.

From office-boy to a lawyer, he rose to be Speaker of the Commons, and he was finally made to proclaim his own disbarriage by declaring from the desk of the House that "John Trotter, Esq., is guilty of the high crime of misdemeanour."

Among the many physical peculiarities of Trotter was an abominable peacock's tail.

speak for him a brilliant future.Seeding is about through in this district and the prospects were never better. It looks as if the famous Cayley district was going to excel itself this year. The winter wheat could not look better and the spring grain never had a better chance to get a good start.There is a great demand for hired men among the farmers of this district at present. There is the usual scarcity of men again this year, and as the season is getting late the farmers are anxious to get all the help they can to get in the crop.The C. P. R. have a steam have almost finished seeding, according to the reports compiled by the C. P. R., while in the north from 30 to 50 per cent of the seed is in the ground. From every point reporting, the conditions are said to be fine. In most parts there was a good fall of snow during the week, which was most beneficial, as it was not accompanied by any serious dropin the temperature, and the snow melted as soon as it fell, thus conserving the precipitation. The fine warm days have brought the growing crops along at a good rate, and with the present outlook for fine weather the growth should be very rapid. The ground is in fine condition for working, and by the end of this week the farmers in Southern Alberta should have nearly all their spring work finished.Printing*Now*Spring PlowingNow is the time to get your
